News Briefs

Pacification Cutback Begins

SAIGON (AP) - The U.S. Command today disclosed the first steps have been taken to phase out the Marines' five-year-old pacification program in Vietnam and said 12 U.S. Air Force jet fighter-bombers have left Vietnam as part of President Nixon's cutback in American forces. The command said the Da Nang headquarters of the Marines' Combined Action Force which oversees the Combined Action Platoons in scores of Vietnamese hamlets, will be inactivated next

It disclosed that inactivation of the program has been under way quietly for the last three months. With the closing down of the headquarters, it will mean a total decrease of about 1,325 authorized troop spaces under the current fourth round of American troop withdrawals, spokesmen said.

Three of the Marines' four Combined Action Groups which made up the force already are disbanded. The one remaining group will be shifted to the direct responsibility of the Marines 3rd Amphibious Force headquarters.

Growers to Fight Chavez

SALINAS, Calif. (AP) - Two Western grower organizations have announced plans to fight Cesar Chavez' nationwide boycott of lettuce sold without the union label of his United Farm Workers Organizing Committee.

Chavez, who used a nationwide boycott to win a five-year battle with Central Valley table grape growers, has called for a boycoft in 64 cities "until the last lettuce grower is signed."

The California Council of Growers and the Western Growers Association announced a campaign Friday to convince grocers and the public that their lettuce is also union-produced, under Teamsters union contracts.

YOUR BLOOD CAN SAVE LIVES

There is a lot of evidence to show that volunteer blood doners are needed more than ever these days. There are reports that in some areas, reserves are running dangerously low. Over the Labor Day weekend, New York City almost ran out of blood. Only by earnest and almost continual appeals by the news media was the need

More than 100 million Americans are qualified by age and health to give blood. If all did so, says Dr. Enold Dahlquist of Providence, Rhode Island, President of the American Association of Blood Banks, each individual would need to donate only once in about every sixteen years, and certainly no oftener than once a decade.

us who are qualified to donate, do so. Much of the annual meeting of Dr. Dahlquist's Association (upcoming in San Frnacisco October 27) will be devoted to the problem of how hospital and community blood banks can increase this percentage to meet the ever soaring needs for blood.

Excuses for not donating are many; but nearly all can be covered by fear, apathy, and inconvenience. A healthy person has nothing to fear; and if you are not in tip-top physical shape you will not be allowed to donate. Alfred Ross, a professional musician in New York, has given more than 16 gallons and feels fine. More than a hundred people have given more than ten gallons.

Is it worthwhile? Indeed it is; and there are thousands of case histories to prove it. Some years ago an athlete at Saint Xavier High School in Louisville, Kentucky, was so badly injured in an automobile accident that he received the last rites of the Catholic Church. But blood transfusions saved his life and he became a great golfer. This year, on August 30, he won the $60,000 first prize in the Dow Jones Open. His name is Bobby Nichols.

If you are between 21 and 66 and in good health, give blood regularly at your local blood bank or collection center. The chances are you will save somebody's life.

"We often hear the warning that what American needs to fear from radical, revolutionary youth is not what they may do but what may be done in reaction to them.

That is, the threat of anarchy from the Left could usher in tyranny from the Right.

"The warning is not to be dismissed lightly...

"Americans are too experienced in the uses of democracy, too committed to the idea of individual liberty, and the threat of revolution posed by the radicals is far too minuscule for us to institute anything remotely resembling a real dictatorship.

"No, the danger posed by the revolutionaries is not what others may do to them, but what they are actually doing. And what they are doing is making one heck of a shambles of an area of society so important that it deserves to be called the 'Sixth Estate,' the college populationed the institutions they attend.

Early in the fourth Winningest Coach

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Johnny Sain has perhaps the finest record of any major league pitching coach ever. Which may contribute to the fact that he is now a minor league

NEA Sports Editor

In eight years as a pitching coach with the New York Yankees, the Minnesota Twins and the Detroit Tigers, Sain was on five pennant winners; the other three teams never were lower than second. Each team he has been on, the manager has been named manager of the year, for the first and only time: Ralph Houk, Sam Mele and Mayo Smith.

Sain says his proudest achievement is that he has had at least one 20-game winner in each of his eight seasons, beginning with Whitey Ford in 1961. And not one of those pitchers—from Jim Kaat to Ralph Terry to Jim Bouton to Jim Perry to Earl Wilson—had ever won 20 before, except Denny McLain. "But that 31-game season," said Sain, 'wasn't that somethin'?

Sain is now the minor league pitching coach of the California Angels and is on the road and in and out of Honolulu, El Paso, Davenport and Idaho Falls, where the Angels have minor league clubs.

Why isn't he in the majors any more? "In baseball," said Sain, "some people try to keep their job instead of doing the job. I try to do the job and wind up

"I have got a reputation," he added, "for muddying the waters. I do things my own way. They work for me. In baseball, if you don't do things in a traditional manner, then people too often think you're stepping on their toes." That August, Sain was dismissed.

Pitchers swear by him; management sometimes uses oaths, too, when the name Sain is mentioned

He has been charged with protecting his pitchers too much, and trying to handle the pitchers as a separate entity from the rest of the team, hiding information about pitchers from the manager. In Minnesota, he moved out of the coaches' locker room after a dispute with Mele and, after he was fired, Jim Kaat wrote an open letter of pro-

"My problem with managers—and it's only been two, Mele and Smith—has come after we win," said Sain. "Everybody wants to be patted on the head. Maybe there are too many heads as far as the manager is concerned. I'd get a lot of publicity, but I wouldn't ask for it. But once I got the publicity, it chilled management."

Sain said he had no ambition to manage, but would like to return to the majors as a pitching coach, "but only if the right job comes up.

"I like working with these youngsters in the minors," he said. "But it's a little difficult working with them for short periods of time. To really help a man, you have to be with

Dressing Room Wins Approval

CHARLESTON - The R-1 Board of Education last week gave its approval to construction of a new dressing room facility adjacent to the football field. The board met Wednesday night for its regular meeting, and then adjourned to Thursday night when the approval was finally granted.

Expenditures on the new structure will be limited to $16,500. The building will be built by the CHS building trades class, with plumbing, electrical work and heating work by the industrial arts class.

Voting in favor of the measure were Elott Raffety, William McNeary, Rolwing and Mrs. Velna Brown. Opposed was Ralph Adkisson. Mrs. Helen Currin, who attended the Wednesday night meeting, was unable to attend Thursday night's meeting and did not vote

The only other business transacted by the board was the contracting of Judith Ringwald as a teacher at A.D. Simpson School replacing Esther Agnew, who resigned.

Symington's statement was a denial of what he said were rumors that he planned to resign pefore his term was completed. "This is categorically untrue," he said in a statement issued from his office.

'I have consistently denied this false rumor in private and at least once in answer to a question from a reporter, but for some reason the rumor continues and therefore I now announce publicly that re-elected to the Senate by the people of Missouri I intend to serve out my full six years.

"Any other course on my part would be breaking faith with my constituents and therefore inconceivable."

The rumors have spread that the 59-year-old veteran of nearly 18 years in the Senate would, if re-elected, serve only until near the end of 1972, at which time Gov. Warren E. Hearnes and Symington would resign, Lt. Gov. William S. Morris would become governor, and appoint Hearnes to the Senate to replace
